

Una Faccia Una Razza - Pierpaolo is moving to Limassol

Piepaolo was checking the Gre Recruitment website and was asking himself if this service is only for Greeks. Of course due to our history most of the candidates we support are Greeks, but we are more than proud to place global minded people from other countries also.

After working several years as a Mechanical Engineer on behalf of an electronics multinational company in Italy, Piepaolo moved to the Netherlands in order to continue his career and his life there. After intensive language courses and some rejections of offers which did not meet his expectation he send us his CV. Not only he was missing the professional challenge but as a 100% Mediterranean guy also the sea. We combined both, and supported him through the demanding recruitment process and now he is packing his things to start in July in a high tech company in Limassol.

To cut the long story short: Italian guy, living in the Netherlands found a job in Cyprus through an Ukrainian Recruitment Consultant based in Greece.

Wasn't this the European willingness to find the best possible solution for each involving party? Values we grew up with.
